

Privacy Policy

Children's Privacy

To assist in maintaining the privacy of our families, we will only print generic pictures which will not be identified to a team or an event. We do intend to publish stories about the teams similar to those in the newsletter. You will be asked at a team meeting to authorize the use of your children's names in the articles. You may refuse to do so. By authorizing the use of your child's name, you are agreeing to waive any claims against the CCHA, any board member, or member of the CCHA.

Calendars

We have decided to password protect access to the team calendars. This is to avoid broadcasting the times you may be away from your home (such as for weekend tournaments).

Email Addresses

We will keep all email information confidential. CCHA will never rent or sell your email address to anyone.

Although we currently have no plans to send sponsor advertisements with the email notification, we reserve the right to do so at a future time. If we choose to send advertisements, we will do it in the message and never release your email address to the sponsor.

Cookies

We use cookies to simplify your experience at our site. For example, your calendar password will be stored in a cookie on your computer, so you don't have to enter it every time you want to look at your team calendar. We will not use cookies to collect information on your web surfing habits.
